INTRODUCTION

In its first issue, the Postal Stationery Collector (PSC), the Journal of the Postal Stationery Society of Australia, included the first instalment of a listing of Australian non-denominated stationery. Once the original listing was completed, almost every issue has included an update to the listing.

This monograph brings together the listings from the various issues of the PSC up until May 2015.

In 1986, Australia Post began experimenting with a range of unconventional postal stationery, many of which bore no indication of value, being inscribed 'Postage Paid'. The first was the 'Super Satchel' which prepaid the delivery of contents of any weight to any destination in Australia by airmail for a flat charge of $1.50. This was followed in 1987 by the $2.50 'Flat Rate' envelope which unlike its predecessor was inscribed with its value of $2.50. This envelope was launched with considerable fanfare with glossy advertising brochures and advertisements in the public press but no mention at all in the Philatelic Bulletin.

Following these issues, Australia Post experimented with a wide range of prepaid products including prepaid boxes, padded envelopes, parcel labels, express post envelopes and satchels and courier satchels, many of which have now become a standard part of Australia Post's product range.

While the first experiments in issuing postal stationery (the New South Wales embossed lettersheets of 1838 and the Mulready envelopes of 1840) were not a great success, entering an Australia Post Shop in the 1990s postal stationery one could be forgiven for thinking that postal stationery had finally achieved the success which Rowland Hill first predicted and that we had indeed entered the 'golden age of postal stationery'.

Given the nature of the non-denominated stationery, there are, no doubt, many items which are not in the listing. In particular, the wide range of minor variations in the express post envelopes and satchels were not included in the listing. Additions and corrections should be sent to the Editor at PO Box 783, Civic Square ACT 2608 Australia.

EXPRESS POST ENVELOPES AND SATCHELS

Note: What follows is a simplified listing of the Express Post envelopes and satchels. There is no doubt that this is one of Australia's most complex issues of postal stationery. For more detail please consult Express Post by Marc Jennison in Bulletin of the Commonwealth Collectors' Club June 1993 pp 92-108 and Richard Peck's articles on studying Express Post stationery in the Bulletin of the Commonwealth Collectors' Club (Nos. 286-290).

1 October 1991 First issue: single self-adhesive barcode, Olympic symbol on reverse.

($2.80) Yellow and red, (C5 229mm x 162 mm)

($3.80) Yellow and red, (B4 353 mm x 250 mm)

Notes: The $2.80 envelopes have the code letters CA, CC, CD, CE, CF and CG. The self-adhesive tab on CA envelopes face right, this was reversed for issues with code numbers beginning CC. CA envelopes do not have reprint numbers under the flaps; these were introduced with the CC issues. The $3.80 envelopes have the code numbers BA, BB, BC, BD, BE, BF. Jennison reports an anomalous use of CA. The self-adhesive tab on BA and BB envelopes face right, this was reversed for issues with code numbers beginning BC. Reprint numbers under the flaps were introduced with the BC issues.

Variations and errors

The satchels vary considerably in the type of plastic used and appear with different manufacturers' logos (eg Nomad Courier Bag) and code numbers. The reprint numbers under the flaps in the C5 and B4 envelopes and the 500g satchels appear to change at random. Envelopes and satchels with missing self-adhesive labels have been reported. Some cases of anomalous numbering, for example, SQ code numbers on NSW satchels (these were actually sold in Queensland) are listed above. Others are likely to exist.

These products were billed as 'pre-paid' however the stationery items themselves have no pre-paid value.
